THE ADVOCATE.

The Elkhorn ADVOCATE first made its appearance on October 18th, 1892, and ceased publication at the expiration of one year, owing to the proprietor, Mr. F. J. Greenstreet, having a newspaper in Whitecourt which occupied all his time. Realizing the necessity of keeping a newspaper afloat in our enterprising town, we have decided to add another industry to the Industrial Department of the Washakada Indian Homes, and herewith produce the ADVOCATE, which paper we will endeavor to make both profitable and interesting to all.

Hard times, as at present the cry throughout the country. We realize the fact that money is scarce and many have great difficulty in meeting their demands, yet in the face of it all we venture out in the journalistic line—to carry on the work begun by our predecessors—confident of success. The secret of this great country is yet untold. We have faith in our fair Dominion and feel certain that Manitoba is going to be the foremost province. Many at present are dissatisfied with their lot owing to a rather light crop and the very low price of wheat. To those we would say—have patience—make the best of your situation, the less you grumble the better. Patience and perseverance will accomplish a great deal. We have been more highly favored here in Manitoba than in many other places. The crops and prices are not as good as usual yet we know of no one in this district, at least, who is in absolute want. It is not to be expected that every year will be a success. In the most favored lands such a state of things has not been known. We trust that the people have learned the necessity of making some provision for just such times as the whole world is passing through at present. The past two years have also demonstrated the fact that Manitoba should become self sustaining; not altogether depending on the production of wheat. Mixed farming should be engaged in, and manufactures established, so that it may be no longer necessary to send our money out of the province to purchase what could just as well be produced or manufactured here.

The ADVOCATE will do all in its power to promote emigration, and assist in the advancement of the town and country. We want your support and patronage. Read our special offer in another column. Give us a helping hand and we promise in return to improve the paper as time goes on. If anything of interest takes place in your neighborhood report the same. What interests one is usually of interest to many others. Send along your news and help us to make the paper such that you may well be proud of it. It is our purpose to give the very latest market reports of Elkhorn, Chicago and Liverpool, so that by comparing these you can readily see if you are getting proper returns for what you sell.

We do not care for matters of public interest but will insert nothing of a personal nature, or anything tending to injure the character of any individual.

We have every hope that the circulation will run up rapidly, and ask all subscribers of the old ADVOCATE to subscribe for the new ADVOCATE.

In politics the paper will be independent.

With these few words by way of introduction, we begin the journalistic career—to stay with the town, watch its daily progress and growth—and hope to successfully step our craft into the regions of prosperity.

THE BARNARDO BOYS.

In attempting to account for the apparent increase of crime in the western part of Manitoba, the grand jury at Brandon in making its presentation to Justice Kilham had the following to say in regard to the Barnardo boys. "Some action should be taken towards preventing the importation of boys from the slums of the large cities of the Old World. We need not state that we refer more particularly to the class of youths which have been brought to the Barnardo Home from the old country." We think the twelve good men have done Dr. Barnardo and his boys a great injustice. It is manifestly unfair that these boys should come under such a wholesale condemnation just because one of their number has turned out bad. We are not very far from the Barnardo Home at Russell and ought to know something about it. The truth is that when any crime is committed by an English lad, it has become popular to set him down as a Barnardo boy, and get a good chance to condemn an institution that is doing much good. Dr. Barnardo has repeatedly denied that his boys come from the slums, and we know that they are as a rule turning out well. Some of our own Canadian boys turn out bad, would it be fair to condemn all our young men because of these few? If not then we should be sparing in our censures of others.

HORSES vs. HOGS.

For a good many years, dealers in eastern horses have had a fat thing in Manitoba and the North West. They have been able to buy horses in Ontario at from $200 to $250 a span, and sell them here at almost double what they paid for them. This has led our farmers to believe that they could raise horses and sell them at equally good prices. There has, in consequence, been a general rush into horse raising—very little attention being paid to the quality of the animals raised or their suitability to the requirements of the country. As a result the horse market is glutted, and the price fallen in consequence. It is true that the price of good horses is yet very fair, but there is no sale for scrubs and never should have been. Nearly every farmer has from one to a dozen young horses on his hands and no demand for them. Almost the only market for them is in France, where a horse-steak is considered good eating. Not long since the sheriff at Boissevain sold a horse for $2, and another for $10. The sheriff of Morden sold three for $38.50, one going for $2.50. At an auction sale not one hundred miles from Elkhorn, three horses were sold for $45.00. These figures look bad for horse owners but at the same time we must remember that there is at present and always will be a demand for good animals, and farmers should in future raise nothing but the best. Just now the mistake made in raising an inferior class of horses is likely to be repeated.

There is just now a regular boom in pigs. Newspapers and buyers are strongly urging the farmers to go extensively into hogs. Packing establishments have been started at Winnipeg and other places. Pork seems to be the only thing that has held its own in the general tumble in prices. Will farmers realize the great expectations held out to them. We believe that depends on themselves. If they think they can make it pay to raise mongrel pigs they will soon find their mistake, especially if they indulge in a little book keeping. Good pigs, well housed and well fed will pay. To do well they require a warm place in winter, well lighted, clean and ventilated. No animal will thrive properly in filth. We would advise every farmer to raise pigs. First, decide on what breed is likely to turn off at about 200 lbs when six or eight months old, then you have a breed that will pay, and be sure you make them do it. Keep just as many as you can properly feed and care for. If more than this number is kept they cease to pay, and it is pay you are after every time.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The British Vets again affect to find contagious pleuro pneumonia in a cargo of cattle sent from Canada. Dr. Thompson, V. S., Provincial Inspector, says that this province is entirely free from the disease, and Mr. McEachern, V. S., Dominion Inspector, declares that the disease is unknown in the Dominion. The officials at Ottawa have asked the Imperial Government to send their Veterinarians to inspect the Dominion and satisfy themselves, offering to pay all expenses and professional fees. This very reasonable proposition has been rejected. "Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise."

The trotting stock of the Palo Alto Stock Farm, Santa Clara County, California, the property of the late Senator Leland Stanford, have just been sold in New York at very good prices. Mr. Robert Bonner purchased Worthier at $3,100.

"Blackleg" is said to exist among the cattle of Prince Albert District, and over twenty have died.

To find the weight of hay in a stack measure the length and breadth of the stack, take height from ground to eaves, add to the last one-half to the height from the eaves to the top, multiply length by the breadth, and the product by the height, all expressed in feet; divide the amount by twenty-seven to find cubic yards, which multiply by the number of pounds supposed to be in a cubic yard, viz., in a stack of new hay, 192 pounds avoirdupois each; if old hay 163 pounds each.—Ex.

This high compliment to Canada is taken from the Chicago Interior: "We are not so anxious to annex Canada as we are to see some of her good ideas transplanted to this side of the border. Throughout the whole extent of her vast western dominions you will not find an outlaw, or hear of a case of lynching. It is not because she has to deal with a class of frontiersmen so different from those of our own western states, but because she has laws and executes them. You can go nowhere, not even in the fastnesses of Rockies or the isolation of the Selkirk, without finding the scarlet uniform of her mounted police. You feel everywhere the presence of protecting law. You are made to realize that you are in a land of order, and that your person and property are under the care of the commonwealth.

HE JUMPS INTO A RIVER

And Never Appeared—Was He Drowned?
No Body Found—Citizens Would Have

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., Nov.

MISS ROSE COLLIGAN is a rather pretty young woman, who lives on her parents' farm near Lambertville, Pa. She is a student at the Pennsylvania College at Pottsville, Pa. She was on her way to school on Saturday morning when she was assaulted by a tramp.

While she was standing beside the track waiting for a passing car to go by, a tramp came up to her and began to speak to her in a rough, threatening manner. She tried to flee, but he caught her and held her by the arms. She screamed loudly, and her cries attracted the attention of a young man, Joseph Collins, who was passing by. He saw the tramp holding the girl and immediately ran to her aid.

Joseph Collins pushed the tramp away from the girl and tried to lead her to safety. The tramp, however, was not to be deterred. He turned on Collins and began to assault him. Collins, in self-defense, drew a knife and stabbed the tramp in the back. The tramp fell to the ground and tried to get up, but Collins was too strong for him. He ran to the river and jumped in.

Collins called for help and a crowd of people gathered. They searched for the tramp but could not find him. The girl was taken to her home and is now recovering from her shock. The tramp is still missing and his fate is unknown.

Collins was arrested and charged with assault. He is being held in the local jail. The case is being handled by the local authorities.

The girl's father is very grateful to Collins for his bravery. He has offered him a reward of $1,000. Collins has declined the offer and wants to be treated as a hero.

The case has caused a great deal of excitement in the community. People are talking about the brave deed of Joseph Collins and the quick retribution that he received.

The tramp who assaulted the girl is still missing. He is being sought by the police. If anyone has information about his whereabouts, they should contact the police.

The girl is now back at school and is recovering from her ordeal. She is very grateful to Collins and his friends who helped her.

The girl's father has written a letter of appreciation to Collins. He has praised him for his bravery and his quick action.

The case has been a warning to other people. It shows that there are still bad people out there who are willing to assault innocent people.

The girl's father has decided to give Collins a reward. He wants to show his appreciation for what Collins did for his daughter.

The case has been a lesson for everyone. It shows that you should always be on your guard and that you should always be ready to help someone in need.

The girl's father has decided to give Collins a reward. He wants to show his appreciation for what Collins did for his daughter.

SEVENTEENTH GREAT GRANDCHILD.

WITH the birth of a son to Princess Ferdinand of Roumania the scene of hysterical delight has been reached by the sentimental and baby-maniacal old lady who rules the domain upon which the son never sets. The mere whisper of the magic word "baby" in the British

ROSEBERY'S STAR IN THE ASCENDANT.

It is an open secret in the centre of circles, of Balmoral-Helios—that one of the Wales girls is booked for the matrimonial haven next spring and that Rosebery is the lucky swain selected. He is wealthy, talented and made in England all three unimpaired qualities. He is a first class sort of an aristocrat, a dandy, a Gasconne grand-pensionnaire. The Sphinx has not yet spoken or even winked, but Rosebery's frequent presence in Royal circles, and the marked cordiality with which he is received both at Balmoral and Marlborough House bear eloquent testimony to there being something in the wind. For and so we are carrying on of his diplomatic

WOMAN A HIGH PRIESTESS OF PALMISTRY.
The ex-Empress is a great believer in the so-called occult sciences, such as palmistry, clairvoyance, astrology, and divination generally. This trait she shared with her husband, who, like most adventurers of fortune, including the first Napoleon, Wallenstein and others, believed largely in means, stars, lucky hours, and other rubbish. When Desbarrolles, the astrologist, came to the height of his fame under the

LAKEHOLLA WANTED EXILE.

Some three or four years ago the dusky matron African potentate with whom Great Britain has been so long and so warmly engaged with a marriage to Queen Victoria's son fulfilled their mission and returned home. It is now transpired that in making her choice she was not guided by the most proper terms upon the beauty and virtues of Princess Desidera, whose portrait she had better back with this, pointing out to him the error of his choice, and that she had never been so taken by her as one of his many wives, and thus secure for himself and his people the everlasting good-will and friendship of the Queen of the Zulus.

In a common-sense view of this suggestion the daily monarch at once opened up powers of debate with the British Foreign Office, and the Queen's Government.

The Queen's Government has been appropriated forty of 10,000 ballads.

The proposal was diplomatically handled by the Foreign Office, and it was explained to the public that the government was not so deeply sensible of the magnanimity of his offer as he was unable to avail himself of it for the simple reason that she was already married. The public, however, was not so easily deceived, and a direct slight put upon him, and he has conveyed his feelings upon the subject in no measured terms, in fact quotes of official papers are current with the remark that the king is a "little bit of a fellow."

They were escorted each time, Miss Huston, teacher in the public school here, gave a reading "The slave that saved his Michael's," which captivated her hearers. They Used Him Rough.

Mrs. Wilberforce Wilson, of Elkhorn, had a rough experience with a threshing gang a short time since. He was watching grain for C. Bell and Massey Harris Co., on a farm seven miles south of Elkhorn. The threshers and two adjoining farmers were hauling grain recently. Mr. Wilson being there, and one of them threatened to use his shotgun if he ever ventured on his farm. About 9 p.m., it being a dark and moonless night, a man came to the door of the house where Mr. Wilson was sitting, and said that a party wanted to speak to him outside. The moment Mr. W. stepped out, a rope in a noose was thrown over his shoulders and he was hauled away by the men across the prairie. The rope-slipping caught Mr. Wilson's jaw, and came near choking him. He escaped with the loss of a suit of clothes and a hat.

The names of the guilty parties having been obtained, the case will come off next Monday.

CURLING AND SKATING

The curling and skating rink was opened on Friday, Dec. 1st. A large number of townspeople—old and young—greatly refreshed by their long absence from the rink, took advantage of the first night, and indulged in that joyful pastime of skating, while the curlers curled on their side of the building, with the old time vigor.

The string band was in attendance and added greatly to the enjoyment of the evening. A stand has been erected in the centre of the building, and we shall be treated every Saturday evening during the winter to the music of the string band. Following are the names of the players: A. Aspinwall, (leader), J. Stirlington, B. Ahlson, R. Coulson, J. Ellerington, W. Glass.

ELKHORN CURLING CLUB.

This flourishing club starts off with the very creditable strength of eight rinks, and from the interest taken and enthusiasm of its members—all good live men—its success is assured and a winter's grand sport is the sure result. A more exhilarating game for our winter months would be hard to find, and we expect before spring that Elkhorn will be able to parade a lot of first-class curlers. The skippers were chosen by ballot and are all good men, and it is to be hoped will maintain good discipline in their respective rinks, and be assisted therein by their men. It is an essential point for good curling that players do just as requested and never question the judgment of the skip, as the soldier obeys his officer without murmur or advice. We do not wish to pose as an authority on the Royal game, but merely quote the statements of those who are, and trust our remarks will not be taken amiss or appear presumptuous. We wish the club every success, and hope they may always give a good account of themselves when playing with outside clubs. We append a list of officers and the rinks so formed:

(From our own Correspondent.)
We are glad to see that the ADVOCATE after its severe indisposition has at last recovered and is blooming out again sending its news far and wide over the snow clad prairies of Western Manitoba.

School meeting and nominations for municipal matters have been the order of the day in Manitoba this last week and by the number of candidates to fill the positions, one would imagine that our settlers were not without ambition, many of them hoping on this occasion to climb the first rung of the ladder that must eventually carry them upwards to political fame. For Beve Messrs. C. T. Gurney, J. Fleming Sr. D. Genuand and H. I. Gally were proposed.

No. 1 Ward—L. M. Lyon, I. Chapman, A. Preston and W. Lynch were proposed as Councillors, Mr. Preston resigning.

No. 2 Ward—W. Rowan, J. Clark, E. Wilson and D. L. Michell. No. 3 Ward—H. Turner, G. Marshall, E. Hamilton and I. Mayfield. The election of course takes place a week from Tuesday.

A railway meeting was held some little time back at which it was proposed to send delegates to interview the ministers of the Dominion Government who were touring in the North West, but unfortunately they went home by San Francisco.
